DESCRIPTION
Hakofugu suspension designed by Issey Miyake is part of IN-EI collection. This collection uses material that comes from the regeneration of the fiber of PET (polyethylene terephthalate) bottles - an innovative project based on a mathematical program and the wise use of the latest generation sources to create a unique relationship between light and shadow. This technology consumes a third less energy than the production of a material derived from petroleum. Also available in various suspension, floor, and table versions. Hakofugu requires a 17 watt, 120 volt, LED retrofit bulb sold separately. 17.75W x 14H. Exclusively at Lightology.
